

Machine Gun Magic

If you have read The Highly Irregular and Somewhat Improbable History of Dillon Precision Products, or just know a bit about Mike Dillon, you know that he got into this whole reloading business because he wanted to feed his machine gun and in those days that was no easy task.

You might also know that Mike was as taken with machine guns as he was with aviation or building the best reloading machines that money can buy. That's why he made a video of his guns in action and called it Machine Gun Magic. Below you'll see a promo he made for the video.
