

The CMP

This month's Classic Blue Press article deals with the Civilian Marksmanship Program. The article, written by David S. Shimm, MD, provides a great history of the CMP along with information regarding their programs. Some of those programs have changed over the years, along with the price and availability of the guns, but the CMP is still a going concern and you can find out more about them here.

You might also want to check out their auction site or their rifle sales page.
